

M I C H A E L D E N N E Y .

1786.

Take care in early youth, learn to be wise ;
Hear reason's voice, her counsels don't despise ;
Only be temperate, and your passions still,
Much may be done, if you have but the will ;
As much depends upon the generous heart,
So one devoid of reason 's sure to smart.